

Entente Européenne d'Aviculture et de Cuniculture (EE)

EE standard

Skinny

March 2025

text and first photo - EE Standard

Presented by
Andrea Kroftova, CZ

Entente Européenne d'Aviculture et de Cuniculture (EE)

Introduction

The breed characteristics of a Skinny is its hairless body and Coarse coated head, legs and feet.

Presented with wellgroomed skin, which appears to be well looked after, without being shaved or showing the use of types of hair removal products.

Entente Européenne d'Aviculture et de Cuniculture (EE)

EE standard —————→

1. Type and Shape	20
2. Head, Eyes and Ears	10
3. Colour and/or Markings	10
4. Coat Distribution	15
5. Coat Texture and Density	15
6. Skin	15
7. Condition and Presentation	15
Total	100

Entente Européenne d'Aviculture et de Cuniculture (EE)

4. Coat distribution

There should be coat on the head, on feet/toes and on legs. They should have round shaped coat on the muzzle and bridge of the nose, it is allowed for the coat to strive up to the ears in the shape of an V. With this come a hairsless forehead between the coat that runs The legs should be covered in coat up to the elbow/knee. Coat around genitals are preferred.

Entente Européenne d'Aviculture et de Cuniculture (EE)

Entente Européenne d'Aviculture et de Cuniculture (EE)

5. Coat texture and density

The quality of the coat should be coarse, dense and crispy. The coat is of normal length, comparable with the length of other show coated breeds.

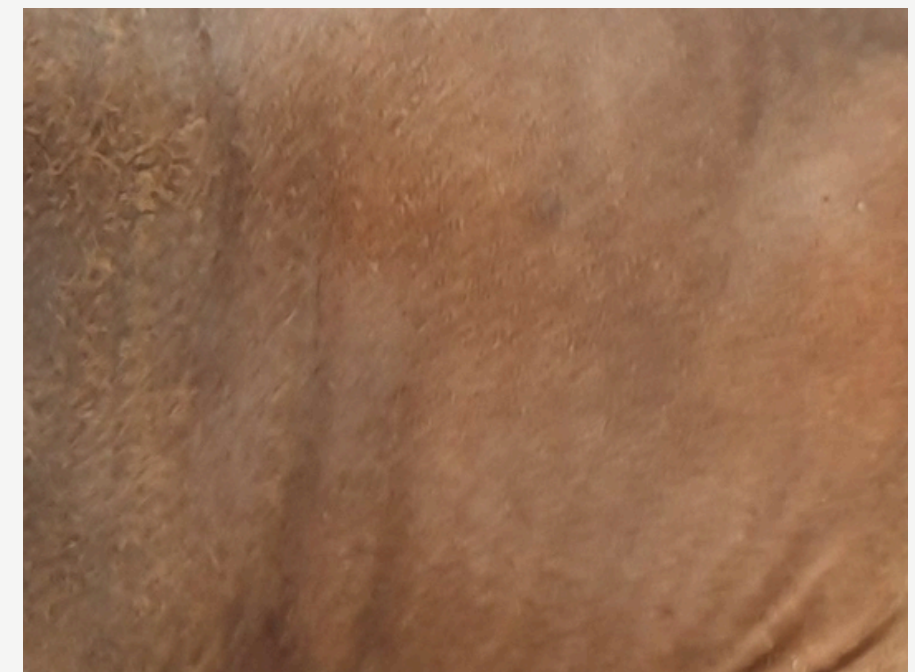

Entente Européenne d'Aviculture et de Cuniculture (EE)

6. Skin

The skin of a skinny should be clean, elastic, smooth, warm to touch and without scars. There should be significant folds in the skin around neck and above the legs.

Entente Européenne d'Aviculture et de Cuniculture (EE)

Faults	Disqualifications
Slightly short, long and/or thin coat on head, feet/toes.	Too short, long, thin and/or missing coat on head, feet/toes.
Coat on jaws and/or patches of coat on the body.	,Too soft and/or straight coat.
Slightly soft and/or straight coat,	Too much coat on the body.
Slightly dry, scurvy, oily and/or unelastic skin or some scars.	Too many scars or deviations in skin.
Many pigment spots.

Entente Européenne d'Aviculture et de Cuniculture (EE)

Thank you fou your attention.

Entente Européenne d'Aviculture et de Cuniculture (EE)

Practice workshop